About

Welcome, Bienvenido, Bienvenue!

Onedesigner was founded by Andres Ruiz in 2010. He was trained in design in Colombia and went back to school in Montreal to become further trained in communications and interactive media for marketing purposes. And since founding Onedesigner, Andres has spent the last few years merging his three languages, different cultures, and creative personality into ONE marketing agency.

Within every project, Onedesigner looks to continue the same mission that Andres established: combining a variety of creative ideas, techniques, and team members to complete projects. Our belief is that there needs to be collaboration within any team as well as between the agency and the client. This collaboration being so cohesive that it is as if all the players involved are ONE.
